Comments to Gender Equality

Partners of the project have united with the purpose to foster equality of all genders in civic society. At the moment the following number of women took part in the project activities: in Latvia – 90%, in Russia (Kaliningrad) – 90%, in Estonia – 80%, in Lithuania – 75%, in Poland – 60%, in Sweden – 75%, in Finland – 75%, in Norway – 100%.

Women played a very significant part in the operation of the project partner NGOs by giving the opportunity to organize public discussions on gender equality in politics, economy, and in social aspects. The project partners reflect the situation in the non-governmental sector of the partner countries where 80% of NGO leaders and managers are women. New opportunities for women foster the civic society in the Baltic Sea Region; therefore, it is important that the knowledge and skills of NGO leaders is improved, especially those of men, because an opportunity would thus arise to cooperate in order to establish and maintain quality gender equality policies. In the Baltic Sea Region (especially in Russia, the Baltics and Poland) there is a society-wide reaction at the moment against women in political and social processes; decision makers at the level of state governments and parliaments deny the necessity of gender equality policies, there are formal for-show attempts at international cooperation projects at the horizontal level of politics – promotion of gender equality. The project of WRI, where different partners have equally taken part from Russia, the Baltics, Poland and the Nordic countries, gave an actual opportunity to analyze and cooperate in order to achieve fostering of true gender equality.

Nordic benefit

The project partners were able to develop and implement the project thanks to the Nordic Council of Ministers' Programme for NGOs in the Baltic Sea Region designed to support the cooperation of Nordic countries with Russia and the Baltics. The results of the project correspond to the NCM Neighbourhood Policy, which envisages strengthening of civic society and equality in the Baltic Sea Region with the help of the resources of non-governmental organisations. In the programme of 2014 the project partners continue to foster democracy and seek for opportunities to promote cooperation of the Baltic and Nordic countries with the Kaliningrad Region in North-west Russia; by doing so they hope to continue the policies established in the first NCM support programmes for the Baltic Sea Region since 1995. Therefore, the project adds to the experience of such highly developed countries as Sweden, Finland, and Norway in the area of promoting civic society in such a problematic area as North-west Russia. Experience exchange between NGOs from the Kaliningrad Region on matters of education, social issues, economy, human rights, the development of civic society and gender equality, ethnicity, age, freedom of speech, sexual orientation, and other equality matters and NGOs of such European Union countries like Poland, Estonia, Lithuania, and Latvia is crucial because by taking over and analyzing the experiences of the organisations of their neighbour countries, the NGOs of the Kaliningrad Region get the opportunity to improve their engagement in policy making, decision-making processes, and public events.

The project activities correspond to the subjects covered by NCM policy areas: Labour Market and Working Environment Policy, Gender Equality, Economic Issues, Nordic Cultural Cooperation, Legislative Issues, Educational and Research Issues, and Sustainable Development. The partners have highly valued the benefits of the policies obvious in Nordic countries and will try to build on this experience and invest in the following areas in their countries: democratic processes, promotion of gender equality, fortification of human rights, social and cultural support programs for residents, inclusive employment, especially regarding immigrants, investments in education and environmental protection, investment in the training of qualified experts of different areas in other countries, and allocating funding to poorer countries. To learn and take over this experience is of crucial importance to the civic society of the countries neighboring with the Nordic countries where the non-governmental sector is still developing. In addition to countries willing to take over knowledge, know-how, and experience from Nordic countries, the Nordic countries have an opportunity to improve their knowledge on the situation in Russia, the Baltics, and Poland. As a result of mutual cooperation of partner organisations, the project has succeed in increasing the knowledge of leaders and volunteers in the non-governmental sector on the opportunities of civic society cooperation and producing recommendations and proposals for the future development of civic society and equality.
